

Janet Murphy rejoined The Ingram Group in late 2010 after a 20 year-break, during which time she served as Assistant to the Director of Finance at Nashville's Franklin Road Academy. Janet wears several hats at the Group, and has – by many accounts – the toughest job in the firm. She keeps the Group's trains running efficiently at all levels – including scheduling, finances, contract management and office administration.

Janet served as The Ingram Group's first Office Manager from 1983 to 1988. Her professional experience also includes time spent on then-Governor Lamar Alexander's re-election campaign and a stint in the Tennessee Governor's Office as Office Administrator.

A Johnson City, Tennessee native, Janet and her husband, Ted, live in Nashville and have two daughters. They enjoy traveling and spending time with family and friends.
